CONRAD BIRDIE...

“Conrad Birdie,” the rock star character’s name, is word play on the name of Conway Twitty. Twitty later had a long career as a country music star, but in the late 1950s he was one of Presley’s rock ‘n’ roll rivals.

Director's Notes

Welcome to circa 1950's Sweet Apple, Ohio! Bye Bye Birdie is a classic piece of American theatre. Throughout the years, there have been many different interpretations. To me, this show presents a look into the lives of teenagers, and what it means to come into one's own as a person. This is showcased in the interactions of many of the characters, teens and adults alike. We also see the dichotomy of the struggles between parents and their children, as well as the effects that celebrities and influential figures have on those most devoted to them.

I invite you to sit back, relax, and reflect as you step through the time machine back to the 1950s as you watch this coming of age story interwoven with many different tapestries of comedy, satire, spectacle, history, and human connection. While times have changed since then, the nature of human interaction and becoming one's own person has remained timeless. I thoroughly hope you enjoy the show!

From the LPI Board of Directors

Welcome! And jump back to 1958 with us as we shake our hips on the rockin' journey of surprise events, fangirling teens, love, and record-label woes in Bye Bye Birdie. Featuring the largest cast in the last several years, we're thrilled to welcome so many new faces and families to our stage — a testament to exactly what this organization was built on — creating a space for people of all ages to belong and find themselves connected under a shared joy for theater.

We pride ourselves in what we've built within this auditorium — and not just the production itself (which is fantastic compliments of our seasoned LPI production team with a collective 45 years of dedication to LPI) but in the community. The space for friendships, reconnection, personal development, and artistic freedom.

To our Board of Directors — Your time and commitment year-round helps us tick. This show marks a first for LPI — as we selected and announced it at our 2022 production last summer. Since then, the Board has been working for the past year in partnership with the Production Team to bring the show you're about to see to the stage. From administrative responsibilities, organizing and planning fundraisers to fund our performances, and continuing to strengthen our organization in the community year-round, they each deserve the first round of applause.

There's something truly unique but this organization. This summer's cast surpassed 70 individuals, excluding the additional volunteers, parents, and community members who come together to make these productions possible. We're forever grateful for the shared collaboration, dedicated hours, learnings, and many laughs along the way. I'd be remiss if I didn't acknowledge specific appreciation to the School District of Random Lake for their continued partnership in offering a space to make these inclusive summer experiences possible for individuals of all ages and backgrounds.

Whether you've come to know us while first reading this, or met us 28 years ago, it's an "honestly sincere" pleasure to have you part of our community and organization. On behalf of the Board of Directors, we couldn't be more appreciative of you joining our talented cast, crew and volunteers. Now, sit back, relax and "put on a happy face" as you enjoy our 27th show.
